THE 1932 BLACK AND GOLD
VOLUME XXI

Published by the
Black and Gold Staff

The 1932
Black and Gold

"Lash me, lash me, wind
with your whip,
"Lash me down Chatham Hill,
sting me to life."

—from Loretto Carroll Bailey's "Cloey."

THEME

In the years when this part of North Carolina was a wilderness of green, wooded hills, a band of Moravians, seeking unrestricted worship, settled in this spot, and named their settlement, "Salem"

From this early settlement grew one of the most interesting spots in the United States. Quaint customs have been handed down to us; and great numbers of people from all over the nation visit the impressive ceremonies held each Easter in the Moravian graveyard.

Salem is rich in historic lore. It is one of the few unspoiled battlegrounds of our nation's progress.

1940-1941

DEDICATION

Because we recognize the true worth of a loyal supporter of our school; because we appreciate his never-decreasing interest in us and in our work; and because we know that, although he is no longer directly connected with our school, he still keeps its interests and progress as much in his thoughts as he did while he was a member of our faculty; we, the Senior classes of 1932, gratefully dedicate this Black and Gold to Coach "Bob" Allen.

*
* Dear Diary,

A red-letter day to-day.
I paid my first visit to
* Salem College. The Campus
* is delightful. Aunt Harriet introduced me to the principal and several of the * faculty. Aunt Harriet was
* a Senior here last year, and several of my friends are Underclassmen. I hope to join some of their * organizations, and especially
* the Sports. There are so many enjoyable features here! I know I'm going to love it here, because all the girls do, and after all it's the best adventure

Scenes

Dear Diary,

Aunt Harriet showed me through the
Academy to-day.
Every thing was as nice — not in the least what I expected — .

"Where learning breathes; where thought lives."

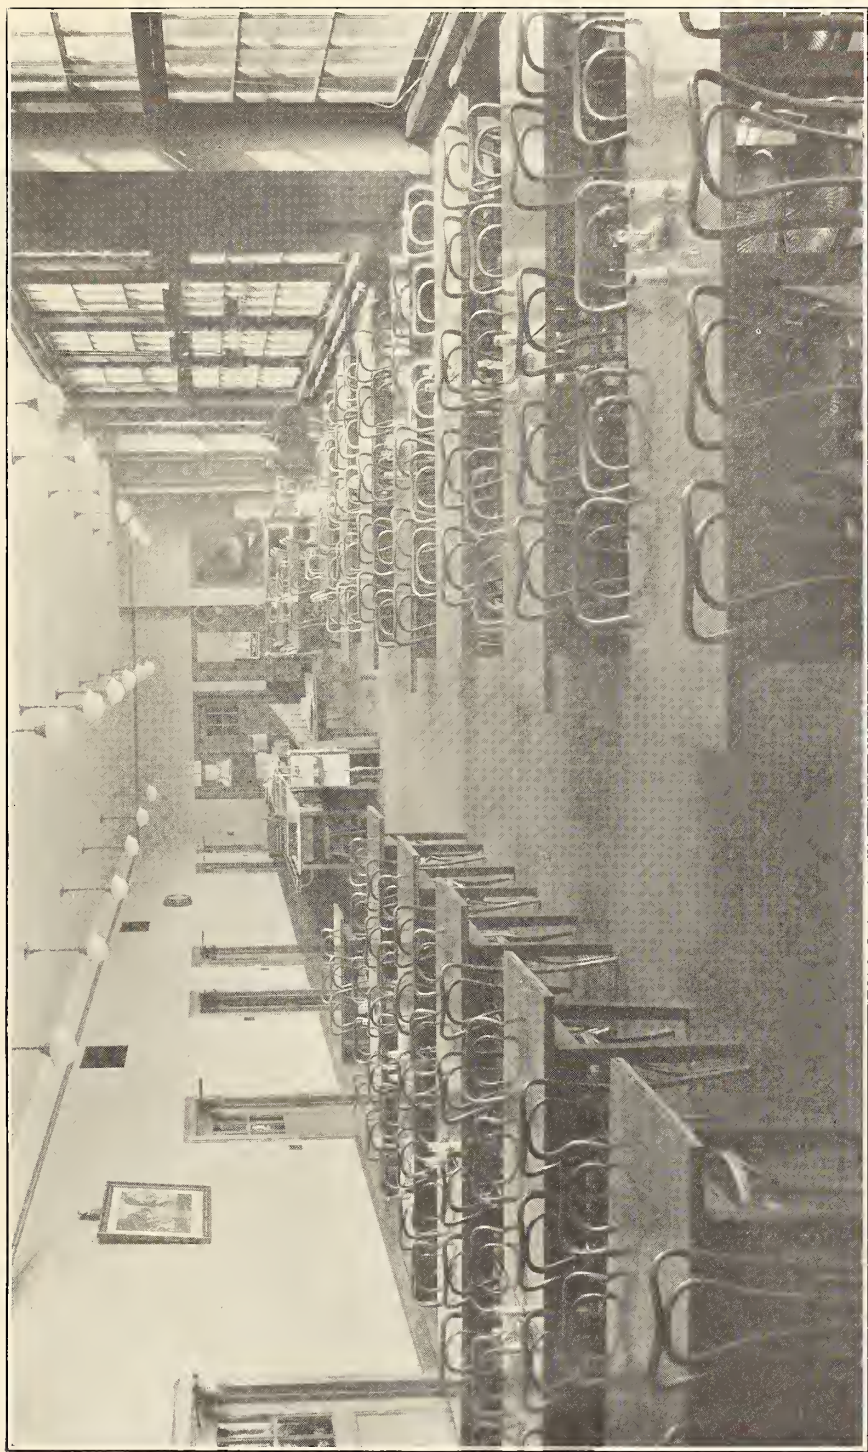

“Between Asgard and the sparks of Muspelheim”

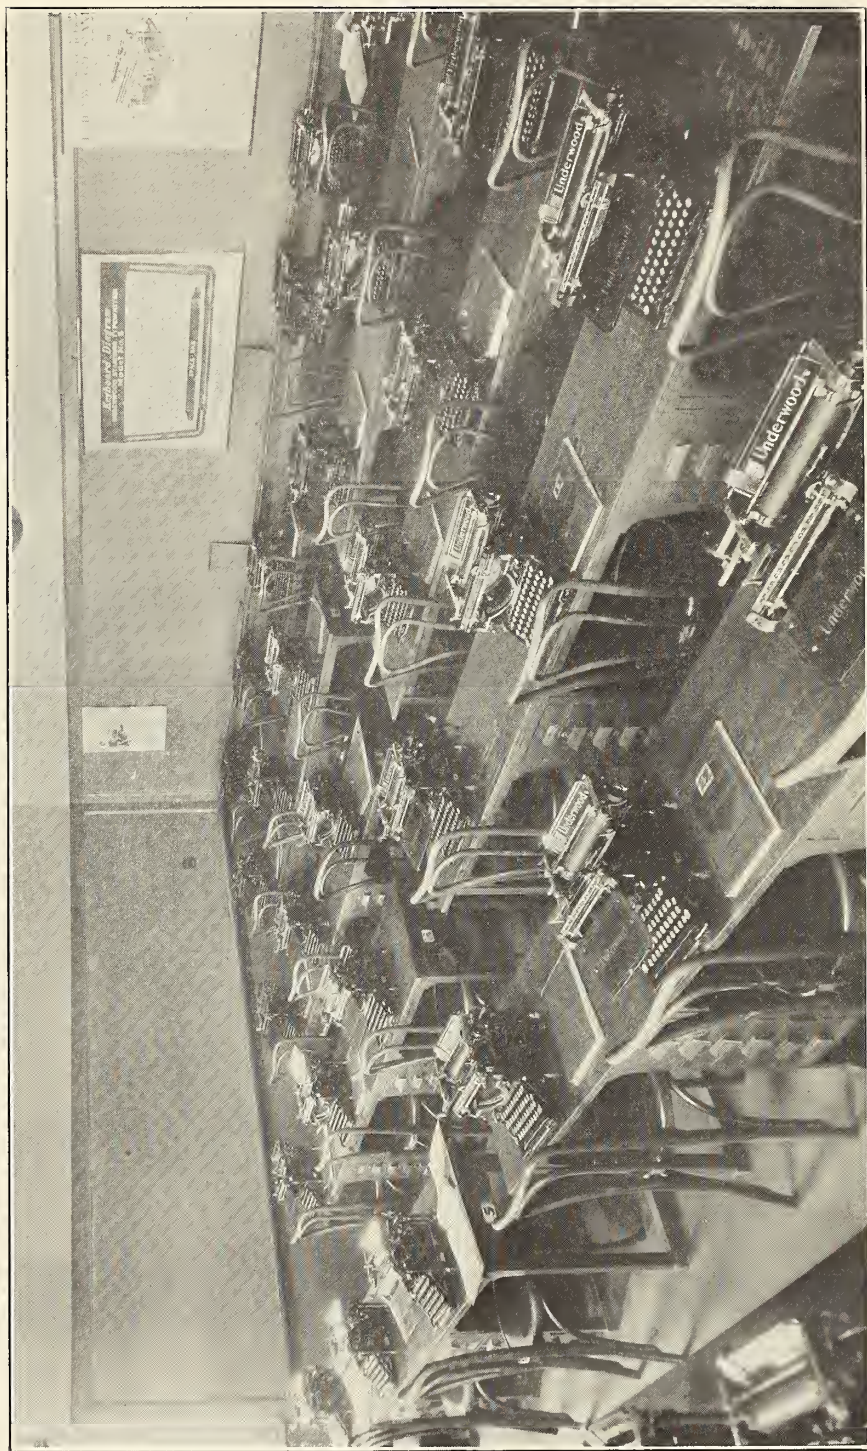

“Where Pride goes just before a fall”

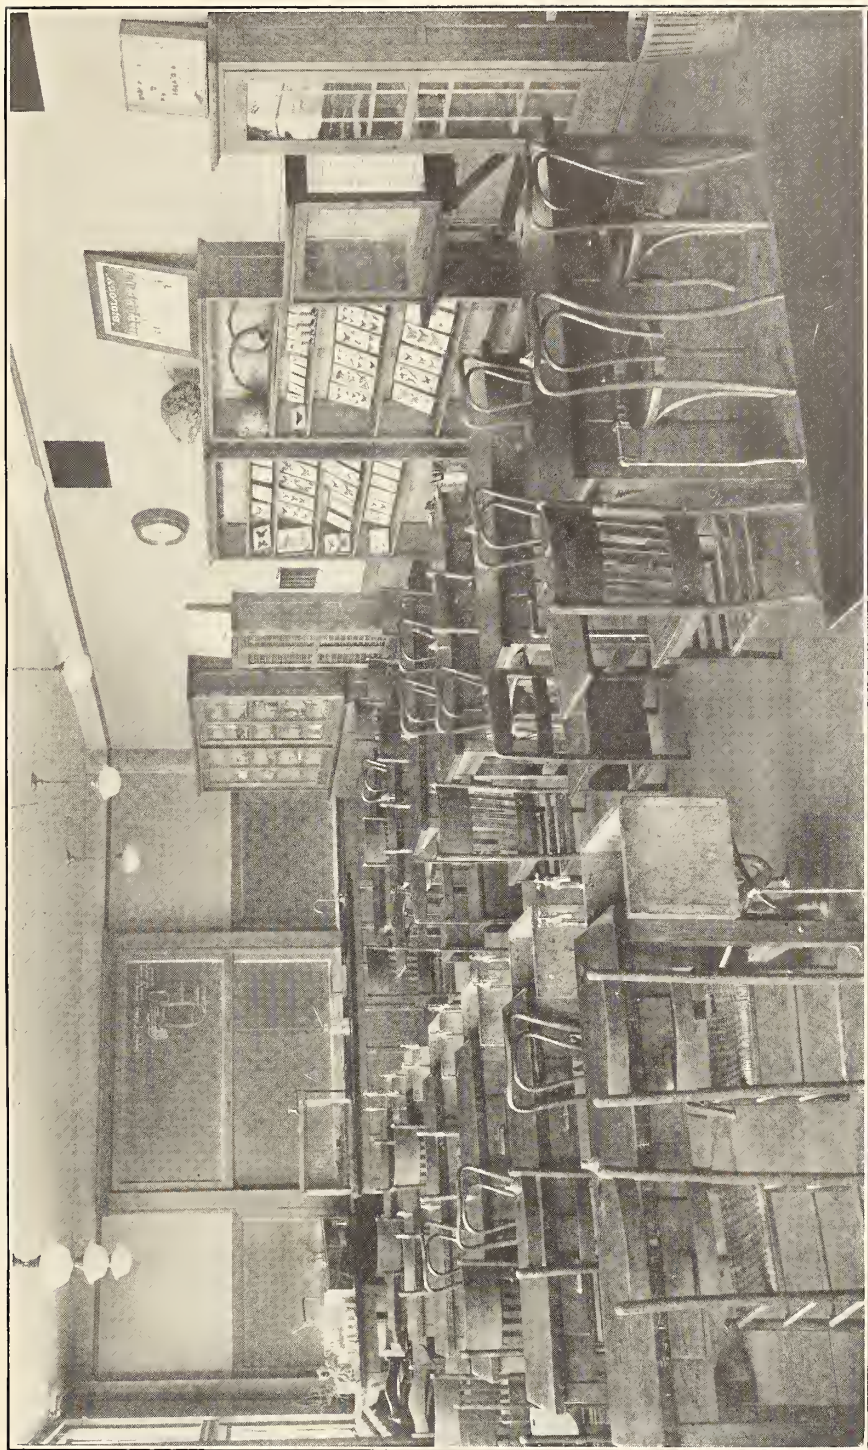

“Fine, thank you.”

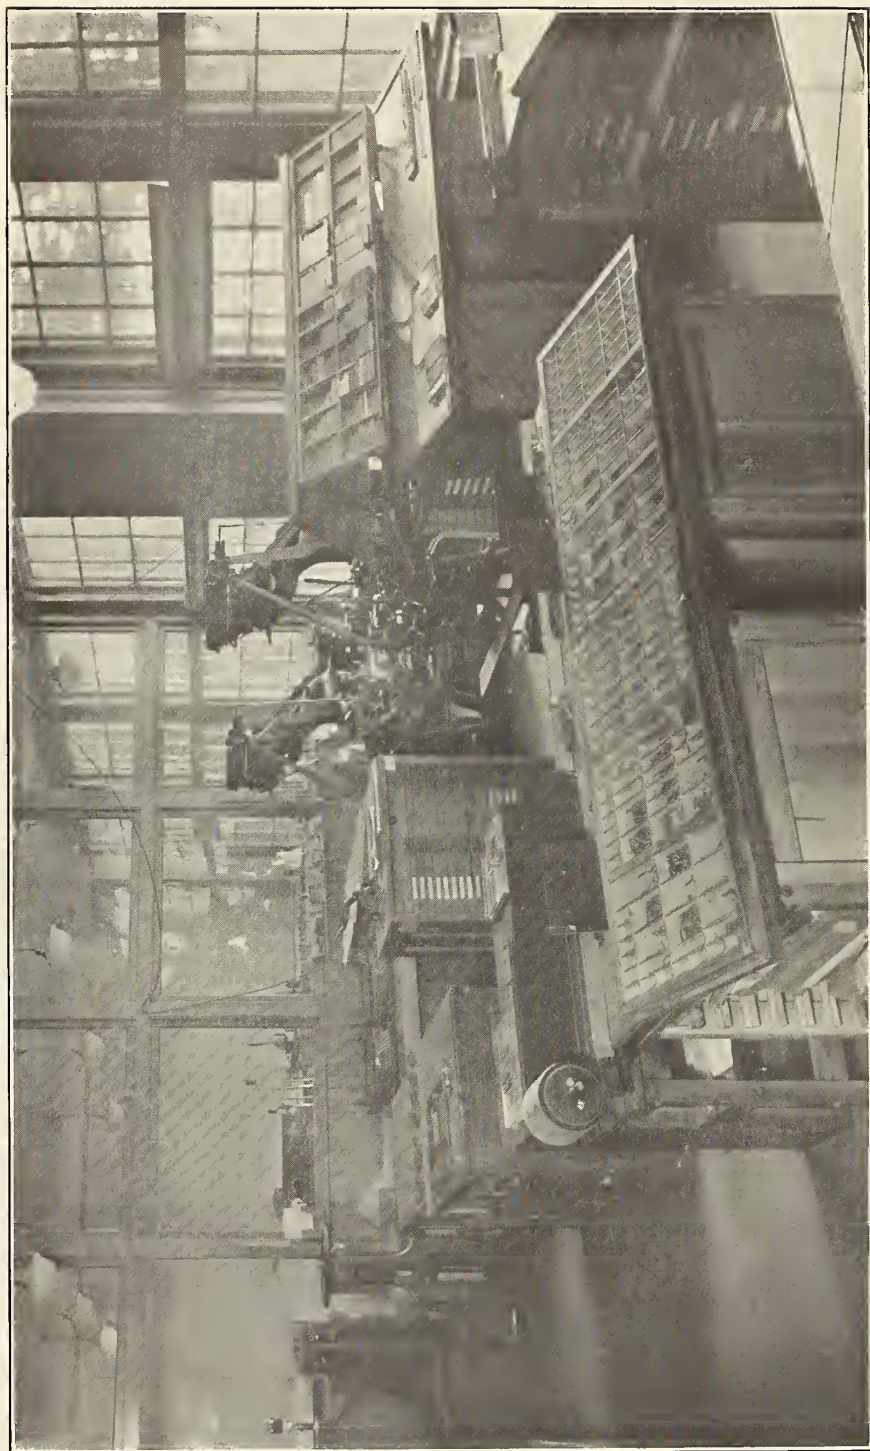

"Food for thought"

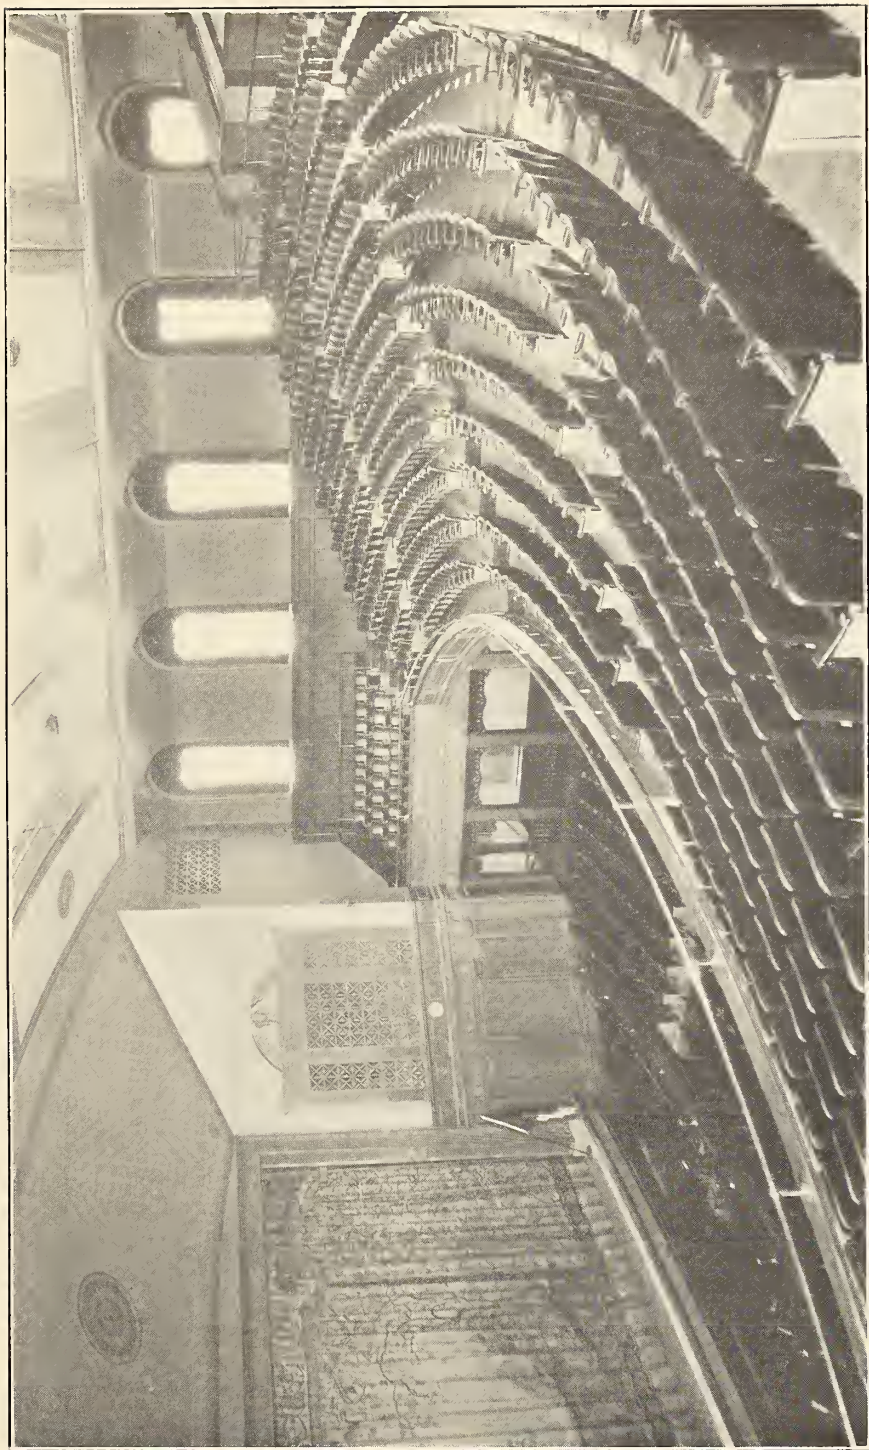

"Post-Graduates' Gotham"

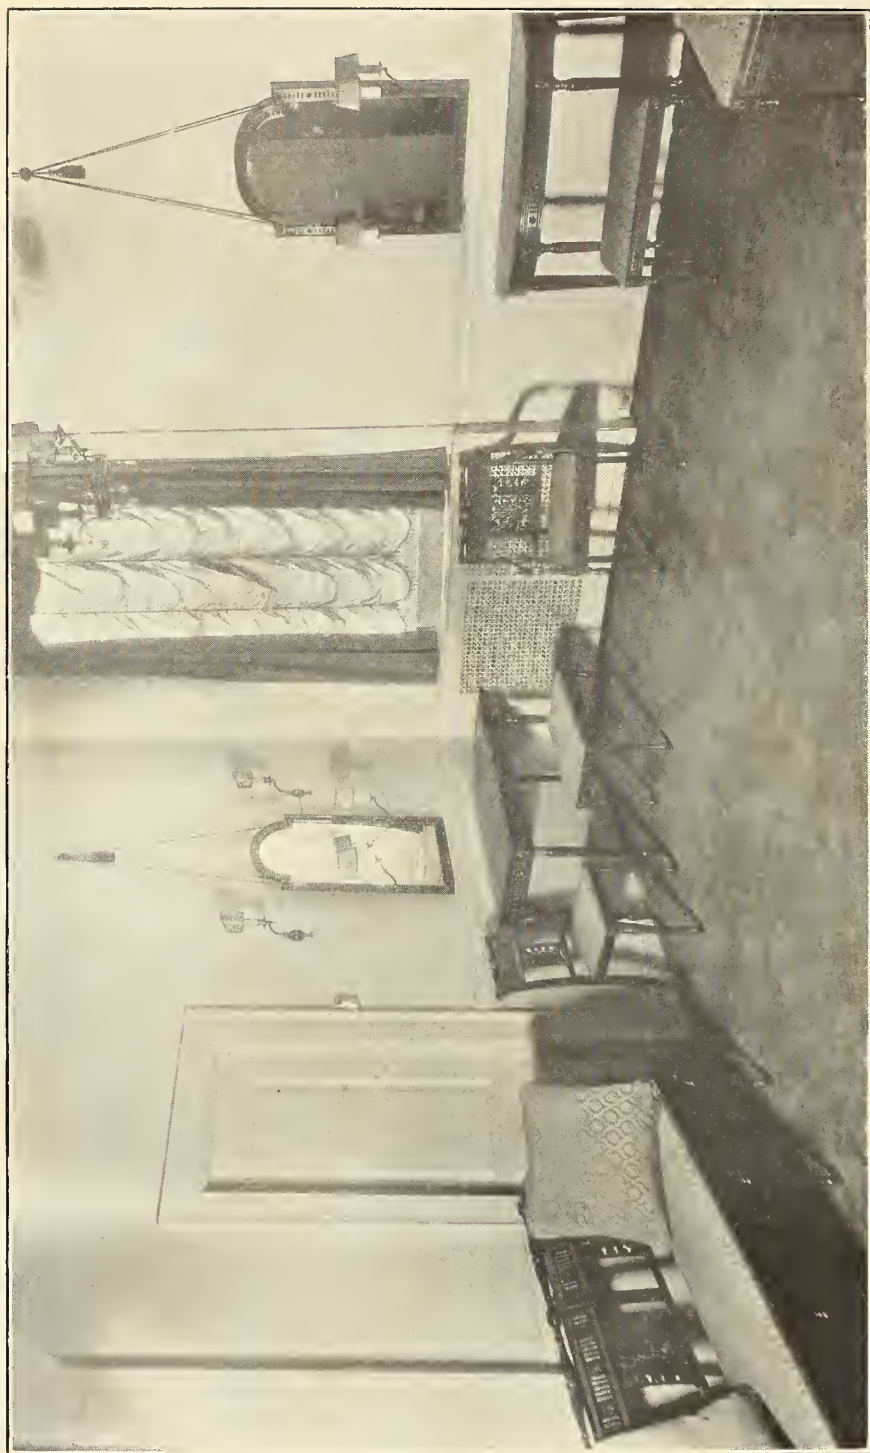

Question: "Where do insects go in winter?"

“Where we stop to watch, but fear to enter”

"Sleep, that knits up the raveled sleeve of care,
The death of each day's life, sore labor's bath"

“Here lilies bloom between the acts.”

Administration

Dear Diary,

I began my studies by getting well acquainted with all my instructors. I think we will get along
well to-gether.

Underclassmen

Dear Diary,

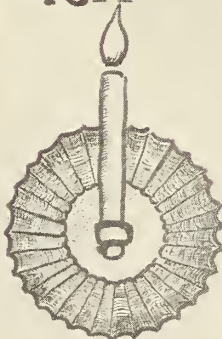

Passed into the
Sophomore class yesterday. I can already feel the effect. The junior class is my aim
now. Mary says
she feels the same way. Funny isn't it?

Organizations

Dear Diary,

Nothing happened
of note to-day, except Sally brought over
some of her friends
this afternoon and
I learned some interesting things
about the college
that I hadn't heard before.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Article I Section 2 of the Constitution of the Richard J. Reynolds High School Cooperative Government states: "All members of the student body shall be members of this organization." The House of Representatives and the Student Council, the governing bodies of this organization, have at all times been in favor of a complete honor system, and have worked toward that end.

The purpose of the Student government is to promote interests of the school and of the students, to keep order during classes, to improve the general morale of the student body, and to guide the students in their actions, yet still placing the responsibility on their shoulders.

The council tries only cases injurious to the school morale. It is composed of President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer, and members as follows: one from 11A, three from 11B, one from 10A, two from 10B, one from 9A, one from 9B and one from 8A, and two members from the faculty. The members are elected by the student body, and the faculty members elected by the council as appointed by the principal.

The House of Representatives tries minor cases and those who break hall regulations. It is composed of the following officers: Speaker, Speaker Pro-Tem, a Recording Secretary, and Treasurer. One member is chosen from each home room. Two or three faculty members are elected by the House and one is appointed by the principal.

The House of Representatives works, together with the Student Council, in an effort "to establish and maintain cooperation in problems of discipline, to increase standards of honor, to promote worthy activities, to create a respect for higher scholastic attainments, to provide a medium between students and faculty, and to promote at all times the general welfare of the school."

Various committees are detailed to do special work on the different projects outside the regular Student Government disciplinary duties. One committee takes charge of the hall monitors and their work. Another, the Grounds Committee, not only keeps the appearance of the campus at its best, but enforces all safety laws. The Library Committee helps the librarians in their work, and last, the Bulletin Board Committee posts notices in conspicuous places in the building.

The Council and the House are not merely governing bodies. They have the interests of the school at heart. In bringing such speakers as Doctor Henry Louis Smith, at one time president of Washington and Lee University, and later president of Davidson College, they have made a great step toward installing a complete honor system in the school.

In presenting the Black and Gold to its subscribers this year, the staff has made an effort to publish the best of student literature and art. Every manuscript was taken into consideration, and the best published.

This year, the first three issues were written and made up to fit the themes of Romance, Comedy, and Tragedy. The annual has for its theme, "Salem."

EDITORIAL POLICY OF 1932 PINE WHISPERS

Pine Whispers this year has made a special attempt to cooperate with all school affairs, to boost those that are worthy of such, and to discourage all things that will not help the school in any way. It has also made a special effort to reach the "average" student, and to make the paper of interest to him.

During our year's work we have gained subscriptions half over the number

The High School Print Shop this year has published Pine Whispers, a weekly; the Junior School news, a bi-weekly; the Maroon Wave, a monthly; Black and Gold, a quarterly; and two annuals: the Maroon and Gold for Atkins High School and the Black and Gold for Reynolds High School.

Bradford, Reece, and Holland have been responsible for much of the after school work on these publications. Hanes, Thomas, and Sparks have also assisted with extra work. Mr. Beckerdite was secured for the press work on the two annuals.

THE AMALGAMATED FROGS, INC.

We of the staff fear that we are not able to include the members of this society in our organization section, for obvious reasons. First, there are so many chapters of this club that a page for each would soon make our annual a frog pond. Secondly, this illustrious society, like the Student Government organization, has everyone in the school as active members.

However, we donate this space for you to fill with the names of the members and officers of your chapter. For any person outside of the school who wishes to know how to join this club, its history, and so on, a brief sketch follows.

The club was originated by G. Gwaltney, who named it The Amalgamated Gangsters of America, Inc.; but, on the appearance of the anti-gangster movement, the name was changed by Mr. Gwaltney, who now bears the honorary title of Chief Toad. The distress call (used in math classes most often) is a hoarse croak, or galunk. Anyone can join who is able to galunk. The initiation consists of a gook administered by a Big Frog, or old member. Anyone can start a chapter spontaneously.

Salem has its quaint, historic spots; nooks where one likes to linger---people whom we remember always as characteristic of its atmosphere, and who fit in with the genuine quaintness of the scene as much as the old tavern and the academy.

We, too, have our historic spots; we, too, have our own likeable personalities and quaint "customs." We want to remember our well-known figures in pictures and written sketches. That is the purpose of the Feature Section.

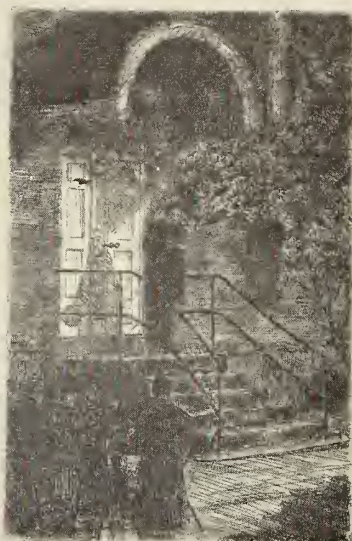

To do this, we have collected odds and ends of interesting material and now we submit it to you. We hope you like it!

REMINISCENCE

JANUARY CLASS POEM

Sweet mem'ries come and fill our minds
With visions of the past;
We see and feel the joy and bliss
Of things that could not last.

Triumphant or victorious
We've struggled through these years.
We've fallen, conquered, tried again
Through laughter or through tears.

At friendship's shrine we often met,
And in that glad retreat,
We spoke of joy or shared our grief—
Now memory makes it sweet.

The murmur of distant voices
Comes to us from afar,
A group of boisterous students
Rushes to catch the car.

How often in those halcyon days,
Beneath the balmy sky
We ran and frolicked joyously
Or watched the train pass by.

How often up that granite path
We trod in sun or rain;
We look upon it sadly now—

Shall we walk there again?

The pines still whisper in the breeze
As tall and straight they stand.
Their branches reach high heavenward
O'erlooking all the land.

The globe still stands within the court
Catching the gleaming sun;
And there before it oft we stood
And many yarns we spun.

To others all things seem the same
As they go drifting on;
To us a deeper meaning bring
For we shall soon be gone.

We stand on the threshold of life,
The future lies ahead,
And we must make the final choice
Of ways that we shall tread.

Is this but a reminiscence
Or is it really true?
Are we leaving here forever
To ne'er again pass through?

by Lucille Fox

GRADUATION

JUNE CLASS POEM

By the sounding of time's gong
Four years of life
Are brushed away,
Lost forever
By the advent of Tomorrow,
Buried in the forgetfulness
Of Yesterday.

Another leaf in the Great Book of Life
Turns with a clashing of triumphant cymbals.
A new one is before us.
The pen is in our hand.
We may mark it
As we will.

The Past is dead

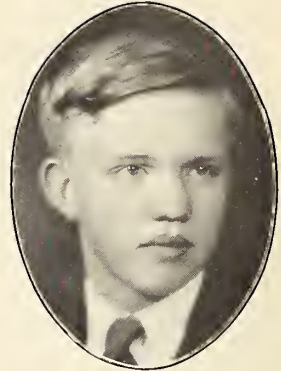

And with it must go
Those beloved visionings of high school life,
Memories,
Of friends and enemies—
Joys and sorrows,
Things sought for and accomplished.

All that can pass shall pass.
Our high school days shall pass,
It is inevitable.
And yet we beg a respite for their beauty,
Knowing that our golden days,
Like golden sands
Had their most joyousness in going.

by Charles Eaton

SUPERLATIVES

January Class of 1932

"WISDOM IS THE DREGS OF LIFE'S CUP."

"Intellectual" doesn't mean "bookish" or "A average", but a quick imagination and a fertile brain. So when the class voted for the most intellectual seniors, they chose these two; the first, the Editor of Black and Gold, who is also a radio enthusiast; and the second, a student who calmly says that she prefers English to any other study. Their names are Wellington Dunford and Lucille Fox.

"A FINE FIGURE OF A MAN."

Two more potential Olympians step into the limelight. One is the tall president of the senior class, Mary Hartness. She wants to be a coach "like Miss Tupper". The other, Walt Holton, is our short, curly-haired, football player.

Mary doesn't like for people to know she is five feet ten inches tall and wears a number seven shoe. Walter is small, perhaps because valuable things (and poisons) come in small packages.

"WHAT COULD ONE DO WITH SUCH BEAUTY."

Best looking! That's a lot to say about anyone in such a handsome Senior class. But here is the result of the final decision. Eleanor Holcomb, the swimming and dancing fiend, has been chosen the most attractive girl; and Hubert Tucker won the decision and now holds the title of best looking boy. He not only leads in looks, but in reticence. He is the shy handsome senior everybody wants to meet.

"SOME SUBTLE SOMETHING—"

Joe Ferguson and Dorothy Clay led the class in that elusive quality; personality. For purposes of identification, Dot. Clay is the Editor of Pine Whispers, who looks like she just stepped out of a training camp. Joe has been described as "energetic" and "retiring."

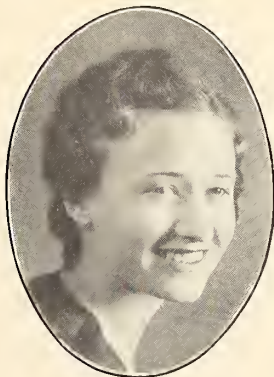

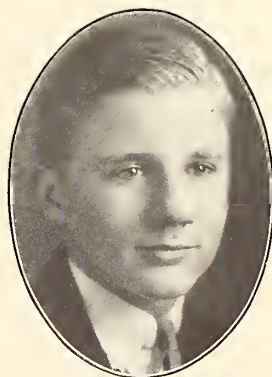

SUPERLATIVES

June Class of 1932

"WITH HIS EYES ON THE PAGES."

Not a few people envy Melrose Hendrix, that little brunette who has held a place in the high average list for as long as most of us can remember. And Louis Shaffner, too, the blond, stoic, enigmatic boy who holds the position of Pine Whispers Business Manager. The class chose these two the most scholastic.

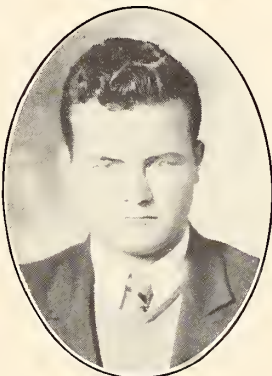

"WITH THE PEOPLES' INTEREST AT HEART."

Popularity deals with the people, and the test of popularity is an election. One was held, and the result was, Jim Brunt and "Tommy" Davis, our most popular seniors. "Tommy" of course is short for "Ila", and Jim is recognizable as the president of the student body.

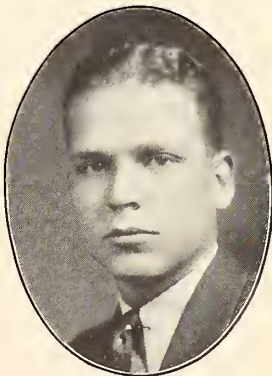

"CONSTRUCTED OF STEEL AND RUBBER."

"Fat" Voss goes out for football, baseball, and basketball; Marguerite Holder hastaken part in basketball, hockey, tennis, track, baseball, soccer, and swimming. Each takes a part in different athletic divisions, but they both enjoy and partake in that most popular of school activities—sports. "Fat" Voss and Marguerite Holder—most athletic seniors.

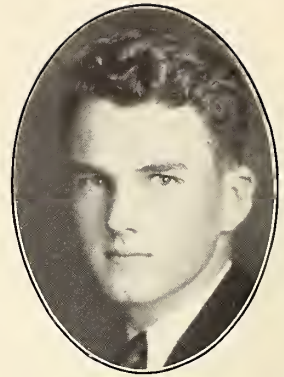

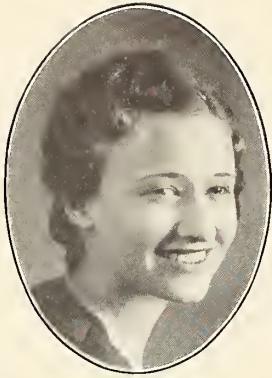

"INTERESTING COMPANY."

Where the less educated would merely say "cutest" the Senior Class decided on the "most attractive." Elsie Thomas and Dalon Bass share this distinction—both played a part in dramatics—Elsie helped give "local color" to "Death Comes To Sonia," and Dalon Bass was the captain in "The Streets of New York." What means attractive? I suppose its "just something."

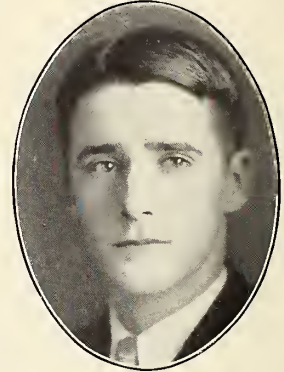

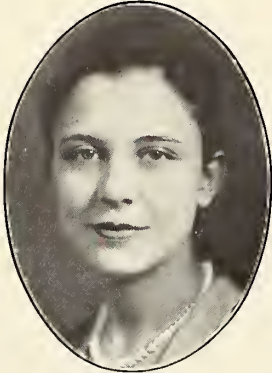

SUPERLATIVES

June Class of 1932

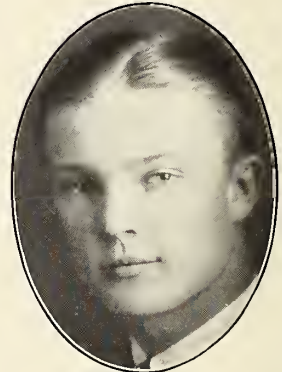

"THE NEW APOLLO."

No list of distinctions would be complete without a best looking. This year it's "Tommy" Davis and Henry Valk. Henry is the reserved young man with slightly curly, black hair, and may be found in company with Mr. Joyner at the fourth period. "Tommy" is tall and blonde, and may be found almost anywhere.

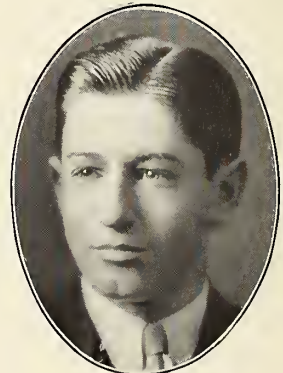

"GENIUS IS LIKE THAT."

Everyone knows this pair—Bob Lindsay and Elsie Thomas—the wisecrackers. Elsie and her timely remarks are part of our school atmosphere, and "General" Lindsay keeps his good humor wherever he may be—even in trigonometry class.

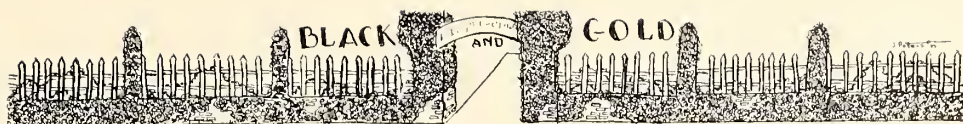

"ONE SHY LITTLE LOOK."

When the question was asked, "What is Dot Perry like?" the answer was "sorta flirtatious." And the same might be said of Billy Coan. In fact, they could be classed as past the "sorta" stage, since the senior class elected them "most flirtatious," or, rather, "biggest flirts."

"ABLE TO ACCOMPLISH IT."

Bearing the title, "best all round," we find Jim Brunt and Mary Mills. Mary is the class songbird, and does quite a bit of singing and playing along with the regular curricular. Jim is our leader in student government, and also putters with various types of athletic activities.

GRUMBLER

JANUARY CLASS OF 1932

We're sick of it all! It's wretched . . . it's miserable! Job himself could never have endured what we have stood for the past four years. It has drawn deep lines on our once fair faces. Our eyes have been marred by the hideous shadows that are now existing there. Our shoulders . . . which once were strong and useful . . . have shrunk . . . have stooped . . . yea . . . for we are laden with the cares of old Reynolds High. As for our hands . . . they are stained and ruined for life with midnight oil. Our hearts are heavy . . . and souls! Bah! Our souls were long since burnt out with hard lessons and stern teachers.

And why this slow, agonizing method of death yea . . . cold-blooded death?

One reason is the hall passes. Wretched passes . . . why do we need them, anyway? Why not allow each pupil to tramp merrily down the dingy halls at any moment of the day? And why have bells to indicate the beginning and ending of each class? Some classes should end before they are begun . . . it would be much easier on the pupils . . . and perhaps a teacher or two. Why shouldn't we be allowed to get up and leave the classroom whenever we please . . . its a free country, isn't it?

And then we come to the matter of the Lunch Room. Oh surely, even we admit that the food is excellent. But therein lies the whole trouble. Why cook such good stuff . . . and then make one hundred . . . yes . . . one hundred students stand in line waiting for it. Waiting . . . half faint from fatigue hardly able to drag their poor aching bodies for a morsel . . . while tempting fumes float out to their quivering nostrils. It is bordering on the barbaric! It is something that should be brought before the Humane Society! But that is not all . . . when at last, after waiting hours in a line that simply won't move up . . . the poor starving pupils are forced to pay for what they eat! Pay for it . . . after they have condescended to go into the Lunch Room!

But we can't spend any more time on that. It is too outrageous to be spoken of . . . even by such humble Seniors as we. We must discuss the matter of stairways. In the four years that we have fought bravely through this great house of learning, we have been forced to climb a certain pair of stairs . . . and descend a certain pair. This is absurd. When a heavily laden, rushed Senior . . . who is trying furiously to escape the onrush of chattering Freshmen, seeks refuge in a stairway . . . he is sent back by some stern hall monitor . . . just because they are the wrong stairs! And then they say that these are the happiest days of our life!

But horrors of all horrors . . . there is the Constitution! You'd think that all these other things would be enough to blow out the last breath in a pitiful Senior's life! But no . . . as if to strike us when we're down . . . as if to glory in our downfall . . . they have to read to us the Constitution! Eight times eight times we have sat eagerly on the edges of our seats listening to its thrilling . . . awesome contents. It is so thrilling that it is boring . . . so awe-

HISTORY

JANUARY CLASS OF 1932

Some wise philosopher made the remark, "One never knows when he is well off." How little we realize a cause for rejoicing until it is long past! It was a happy hour for us, when on that cold, dark night in February, 1928, while the wind was blowing and sending snow down in sudden flurries of whiteness, we, the freshest of freshmen, first entered the awe-inspiring portals of this great halls of learning.

Our first year, and on the side let me say that the first year is the hardest, was occupied mainly with attaining a high scholastic record, even over the obstacles of civics and algebra. Sybil Davis led us through the unfamiliar labyrinths of this year.

We finally passed through the mazes of freshman life, and emerged quite sophisticated sophomores, but in the act took a severe chastisement, for geometry was, for us, purely a punishment. We came through sadder but wiser. Again, still under the able leadership of Sybil Davis as president.

As juniors, we really accomplished great things under the guidance of our president, Ruth Binkley. We reached the heights of joy when our rings arrived, and consciously exhibited them to the gaze of the student body. The Junior-Senior Reception went over successfully, and we began to look forward to being Seniors. Near the close of this successful year, Miriam Early, Ruth Binkley, Sara Frances Spainhour, and Polly Jacobson were inducted into the National Honor Society. Wellington Dunford come into the limelight by writing the comedy, "Jasper," which entered the play production contest with Charlotte and High Point. Dorothy Clay and Wellington Dunford were elected into the Quill and Scroll Society.

At last! We became seniors. But a goal attained loses some of the joy it had while being sought, for we, as countless other Senior classes had before us, waited and hoped in vain for the mythical materialization of the long-talked-of Senior Privileges. Instead of being lords of all we surveyed, we began to enter and deplore the intricacies of advancing to the position of high school graduates. Class meetings and heated discussions led to the resolution to wear caps and gowns at graduation, and Jean Brimley was elected mascot. Mary Hartness quieted the confusion, as president, while the class decided on the class gifts and other major details. The Junior Class submitted for the Junior-Senior Reception, a dance at the Reynolds Grill, and was met with a whole-hearted response. Even in the chaos of seniority, we held our own in honors. Dorothy Clay was elected Editor of Pine Whispers and Wellington Dunford became Editor of Black and Gold. Again we took dramatic honors as Wellington Dunford's play "Nocturne" won the state contest for play-writing at Chapel Hill and placed in the production contest.

Then came graduation, and with it came satisfaction. After four years we had struggled through, and made good. We leave the school now for college, but we will always remember it as the place where we spent four years of the happiest part of our lives.

STATISTIAN'S REPORT

JANUARY CLASS OF 1932

Alas! After one year of peering around in corners, going through waste-baskets, and searching the floor with a magnifying glass for those fabled privileges, the Seniors felt that they were some wiser and a little more sophisticated. Their dignity must have suffered a relapse, however, judging from their answers to the questions "What size shoe do you wear?" and "What is your favorite study?" As if they ever had a favorite study! Of course, they were requested to be absolutely truthful—but more than half the class proved to be already members of or candidates for some tall story club. But judge for yourself.

The class is just a bit undersized, but that will be remedied eventually because one of its favorite hobbies is eating! It only weighs 11,844 pounds! The average weight is 131 pounds. The tiniest Senior weighs 65 (so she says) and the plumpest has a neat, trim little figure of 210.

Four hundred and ninty-eight feet is the height of this poor, underfed dwarf of a class. At least it might make a hangar for the Graf Zeppelin. The tallest claims to be 7 feet 2 inches, and the smallest, 3 feet 4 inches—but nobody seems to be able to find either.

The seniors' shoe is only a number 563—wouldn't Santa Claus have a nice time filling their sock? The largest size any boy cared to confess his shoe was number eleven—and the smallest he dared to say was five. One boy answered that the size of his shoe was rather light. The smallest size any girl dared to profess was a three, and the largest size she had nerve enough to admit was number eight. One girl says she wears five and a half trouble A.

Since gentlemen prefer blondes, the Senior class is decidedly out of luck. There are only ten who can possibly assert that they are among the "Gentlemen Prefer" type—and five of those are boys! Brown hair leads with 55 claimants. There are 9 redheads—beware!

In all the names of the Seniors (at least those who were brave enough to tell their names when answering these questions) the name Ruth proves to be most popular. There are seven Ruths counting Emma Ruths, Annie Ruths and Nancy Ruths. Among the boys the name William or Bill leads with three. After this depression will anyone ever be named Bill again? Of course, there is a regular share of unusual names. We have our Venuses, Paiges, Graydons, Wellingtons, and Almonds.

Blue eyes lead among the Seniors, claiming 42—or maybe 42 claim blue. There are no black eyes—at least not permanently and naturally black. Twenty-eight have brown; nine, gray; six, hazel; and six, green. Either someone fibbed or several seniors are color-blind because fifteen were counted whose eyes were very much "cat". One person professes to have tawny eyes—whatever they are.

Football is the favorite sport, and, strange as it may seem; it is more popular with the girls than with the boys! After football comes tennis, baseball, swimming, and basketball. Someone proclaimed tiddly-winks to be his favorite, but several people honestly admitted that they enjoyed a game of Pollyanna more than anything else.

OUR TROPHIES

No annual would be complete without a picture of our trophies. That most able hunter, Bob Steelman, has suffered a relapse. He thinks he's in ambush. This picture was taken at great risk because Colonel Steelman took us to be a herd of elephants, and shot at us with a 30-30. Happily, his aim was bad.

Left to right, our trophies are: An unnamed animal usually designated "Smith Marshall," after its discoverer, Colonel "Badger" Steelman. Since this was the only one in existence, it is now extinct.

The next specimen is a Gilus, which always carries a football under one arm. Colonel Steelman says he is the missing link half-broken.

The nose you see is that of "M' Strawn," running mate of the Legitte. Billy Patterson, in shooting this specimen, used a cannon full of water-melon seeds, and only the nose was left. Billy was the Colonel's guide, and now may be seen second from right.

Next is the Swaim, known by its fellows as "Winkie." This was restored from a fossil.

"Leg it," shouted the Colonel when this new species appeared and bore down upon the beaters. An unnamed here stood his ground and since then, Colonel Steelman has bestowed that affectionate title on this trophy.

The next trophy is most familiar, since it was first. "John" is its name, and is the only animal with horns which wears a hat.

The "Eleanor Flynt" (scientific name) was captured, at great risks, by our friend Colonel Steelman, almost single handed. The hypnotic stare from its eyes almost overcame our hero before he succeeded in overpowering it.

Here is the prize of our collection. After Billy Patterson, Colonel Steelman's former guide, we have an animal which the natives called "M'Shuze." A more brutally cruel animal could not be imagined. It was found in our very own building heartlessly dissecting frogs (Nance to the rescue!) and beetles.

PROPHECY

JUNE CLASS OF 1932

(Universal News Service—June 5th, 1952)

Celebrities from all over the world attended the World's Fair held here during the months of May and June. It is particularly interesting to note that a great portion of this elite group was graduated from Richard J. Reynolds High School in 1932. Among the more famous of the assembly was Professor Samuel Glen Thornton, illustrious student of modern history. Professor Joseph Wadsley, the mathematical genius, who after years of unceasing effort, has evolved the equation for unscrambling eggs, was also present. Among the literary world was Miss Dorothy Perry, whose poem, "The Slaying of the Shrimp", has moved the entire world with the rhythmic grandeur of its candence. Mr. Sidney L. Kinney, musical critic and connoisseur of art, read for the first time his "Dissertation on the Rare Excellence of Ripe Hen Fruit." Lieutenant Sir Beverly Kile Miloway, Ph. D., distinguished war correspondent and adventurer addressed a gathering of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Trained Fleas. The Modern School of American Art was well represented by Misses Virginia Wimbish and Evelyn Johnson, whose master-piece "Sunrise over the Podunk", is fast becoming recognized by art critics.

In an exclusive interview with Sir Thomas Allred, our correspondent was given several interesting facts concerning the class of '32 of the R. J. Reynolds High School (Sir Thomas is, himself, a graduate of this institute.) Ten per cent of the group became millionaires. These gentlemen, under the business management of Mr. B. C. Hall, financial wizard, made their fortunes in the manufacture of life preservers for gold fishes. Only one person has become grey-headed. There has come one murderer from the class, J. Fred Gerner, having become dissatisfied with the boarding house hash which his mother-in-law insisted on feeding him, killed her one night with the second-best fire tongs and whizzed silently off into the unknown. He has not been heard of since. Sad to say, twenty per cent of the class of '32 are invalids. Pink tooth brush, athlete's foot, and charley-horses between the ears, have brought these young geniuses to languishing beds of sickness. Giles Smith was so badly affected by pink tooth brush that he is suffering now from a bad case of falling eyelashes. As for the rest of the class, from them have come a large number of janitors, peanut venders, street sweepers, tramps, hoboes and other public benefactors of mankind in general. Sad to say a few of these numbers were failures in life. These became mere business and professional men. Their condition is truly to be pitied.

Thirteen and three tenths percent are now professional dough-nut holers. This highly dangerous profession consists of creating holes in doughnuts by use of ultra-violet rays and atomic energy. Their names have become a by-word in every household. Seven and ninety-nine hundredth's percent have joined themselves together as the nucleus of that great fraternity which is affecting the universe with its actions. It is the society for the creation of that which promises to be perfection itself in the financial world; a seven cent nickel.

HISTORY

JUNE CLASS OF 1932

As we stand here on the verge of graduation, and try to visualize our futures and to reach out and gasp the unknown, we begin to realize the uselessness of trying. There is one thing left for us to look back over our years of high school life, boast over our accomplishments and bemoan our shortcomings.

As is usual, upon entering high school we were freshmen; and, as most freshies are, we were unusually green but pronouncedly proud that we had finally reached the stage of life where we would really be shining lights and accomplish something of note. Even after the first pitying gazes of upper classmen intruded our elevated plane, we insisted on being proud to be members—if only insignificant ones—of such an educational institution as the one which we are about to leave.

For a few weeks we strolled about with our heads in the clouds, until algebra, that subtle form of mental torture, brought us back to earth with a bump. From then on we were model freshmen. We attended football games, and were bitten very badly by the bug of school spirit, and the effect has stayed with us.

The prospect of becoming juniors gave our sophomore year a zest. We began to broaden out mentally and to enjoy ourselves more and more with each "passing" day. Extra Curricular activities, which heretofore had been an unheard of luxury, began to attract our attention. We had been model freshman and lived up to our names and title (Sophomore, translated literally means "wise fool") by prosecuting and persecuting some of the year's model freshmen. During this year, several of our number made places on our athletic teams, dramatic clubs, and so on, but no genius was discovered. The year ended in fine stylè, and those of us whose stiff dose of geometry had "taken", became Juniors.

The Sophomore year is a miserable year. A sophomore is not quite a freshman and just as far from a junior, so when our junior year came with its distinction and leadership, it was an entirely new experience for us. Simultaneously with our attainment, we received a veritable deluge of speakers. We all memorized the speeches. We could tell in advance what the speaker was going to say. "You are on the threshold of life. You are laying the foundations of life." Nevertheless we proceeded to cross the threshold and lay our foundations with the aid of Melrose Hendrix, who secured highest in scholastic spheres. Louis Shaffner did his bit, and Muriel Bull and Howard Mitchell also distinguished themselves in this line. In dramatics, Mary Morris was probably the most outstanding. W. G. Jerome led in Journalism, and Billy Woodruff began laying the foundation for a literary life. Athletics drew too many of our number to mention here, although they deserve much credit.

One usually enters the senior year in a class history by shouting "Seniors!" so, since it really is true, we're "Seniors!" The long-awaited year has arrived and passed. With Louis Shaffner holding the reins, we galloped madly down the home stretch. Sam Thornton stretched his long legs and captured the Southern Conference high-jump records. "Fat" Voss, our class athlete, made all-southern tackle. Bob Lindsay became President of

THE LITTLE RED MAN

"The Little Red Man will get you if you are bad" has gradually faded out and Salem children are no longer frightened into obedience by this method.

It started long ago when the basement to the Sisters House was being built. As the deeper part was being dug, one of the walls caved in killing a laborer who wore a red jacket. Since then the Sisters House has been haunted more or less regularly by The Little Red Man.

At one time a deaf lady fed the "ghost" daily. In return he played with and amused her. This went on for a long time until a nosey old sister noticed that her friend was slipping food from the table and mysteriously disappearing after each meal. At the next opportunity the nosey one followed her deaf sister to the bakery in the basement. After looking carefully around the sister gave a low call and an impish spirit slid from behind a flour barrel and began to eat the small meal. Sister "nosey", forgetting herself, stepped from her hiding place and spoke to the man. The Little Red Man jumped up in terror and disappeared. The deaf sister, heart broken, searched daily and called him, but never saw her friend again.

Occasionally now he is seen sitting dejectedly on a rum keg or skipping through the corridors and stairs peeping through every keyhole to find his aged companion who died over a century ago.

THE ARMY'S VISIT

The president paced his small office in anxiety. He could send the girls home, but no, there weren't enough carriages in the whole of Salem, and besides it would be dangerous for them anywhere else. They might as well stay where they were, he decided.

Late in the afternoon an army of tired Yankee soldiers marched by the girls college. Every window and blind was closed, but more than one pair of eyes peeped through the narrow cracks behind them. Suddenly one of the upper windows opened and a girl from the far south, brimming with patriotism, flung out a "bonny blue" confederate flag. No Barbara Frietchie scene was enacted; however, the incident caused much amusement among the weary ranks.

Fearing least stragglers or trouble seekers might harm the students Doctor Zorn, the president, asked the commander for a sentinel patrol. The two soldiers, chosen after marching all day, turned out for a night shift in the wind and rain.

Long past midnight Dr. Zorn called in the sentries, gave them a filling supper, put them in his bed, and went out to take their place.

Next morning sugar cake and coffee were served to the departing army. Many years afterwards the sentries still found it hard not to believe that their experience was not a dream.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

JUNE CLASS OF 1932

We, the June Class of 1932, being of sound mind and body, realizing our present position and realizing also the mistakes we have committed during our more or less brief stay here, and endeavoring to leave the best of our belongings where they will be most beneficial and appropriate, do hereby make this, our Last Will and Testament, this fourth day of June, 1932.

Article I, Section 1:

To the June class of 1936, we bequeath our class flower, the rose, and our colors, blue and white, which we have cherished through the years we have studied here.

Section 2:

To Miss Moore, and to the members of the faculty, we have so unfailingly directed our course, we leave our sincere thanks for their untiring efforts and phenomenal patience in guiding, inspiring, and teaching us.

Section 3:

To Miss Ruth Ford, our class sponsor, who has faithfully led us through our many trials and successes, we extend our gratitude and appreciation for her willingness at all times to render those services which we could never have accomplished without her leadership and assistance.

Section 4:

To the entire student body, we leave the task of perfecting the Honor System, which we, as a class, so earnestly strived to establish, realizing the need of such a system, in the hope that, in the years to come, other students will profit by the success of this venture.

Article II, Section 1:

To the incoming seniors we leave, with the greatest delight and indulgence, the great horde of Senior privileges. It is our earnest hope that they, in a more pronounced atmosphere of enlightenment, will be able to study them at leisure and use them with more discrimination.

Section 2:

To the Senior Teachers, we leave, with apologies, the task of preparing for college those of our number who, for obvious reasons, chose to remain behind us.

Section 3:

To the class of January, 1933, we relinquish our seats in the center of the first rows in chapel, with the sincere hope that the concentrated gaze of the entire student body will not disconcert them in the degree that it affected us. To them we also wish to bequeath the unobstructed passageway to approaching these seats, and the doubtful privilege of leaving the auditorium first.

Section 4:

To the school at large we leave the major interruptions; five drills, train whistles, and telephone calls, hoping that they will not disappoint them by the infrequency of their occurrence; and also, we part with the suspense of watching the clock during chapel programs, in the hope that many undesirable classes will be taken up by talks from the rostrum.

Section 5:

To Tyler Port, Billy Woodruff leaves a reasonably exact facsimile of his gleaming red hair and the distinguished and outstanding quality included in this offer.

Section 6:

To Jeanette Kelly, Mary Mills leaves her plumpness and size, pointing out the fact that it takes a person of this caliber to be "Best-All-Around."

Section 7:

To Robert Meredith Helm, Jr., Beverly Milloway leaves his size and his winning smile, knowing that an orator and debater can use both to advantage.

We hereby appoint, as administrator of our estate, Mr. W. D. Perry, whose efficiency in all manner of work we have noted during his frequent advertising campaigns.

To which we set our hand and seal.

Once upon a time . . . way back in the dim periods of Reminiscence . . . someone who was very sour and bitter toward the world in general . . . found a slip of paper . . . wrote his name upon it . . . and called it a Senior Privilege. To

We want to learn big things that we have never heard of before. But do we? Oh no! Immediately we are given a four years course in English! And then our fathers pay for us to learn that which they themselves have already taught us.

In our grammar days we were taught to write. Furthermore . . . we were taught to write beautifully . . . as Mr.

Palmer claims to do. As soon as we become Seniors this remarkable habit is ruined. Teachers who think that they are the only ones giving assignments demand that a forty page outline be turned in the following Friday. We write frantically . . . scribble meaningless words . . . buy up all old outlines and copy them hastily . . . quote paragraph after paragraph from some sophisticated book. We wish that the man who invented home room programs had died before he invented them. Surely he was never forced to sit through one himself. If so, I am afraid he would have committed suicide. One speaks of the suicides that occurred during the times of depression. A man who is prosperous suddenly finds himself penniless. Rather than disclose the fact to his wife he sticks a pistol to his heart and it’s all over. Now I ask you . . . what would that self-same man do in our case? What would he do if he were forced to sit forty-five minutes listening to a bunch of dumb kids making themselves dumber by talking . . . laughing . . . singing to a disgusted audience? He would commit a far graver crime than mere suicide!

And then they criticize our modern youth! I tell you . . . the present students of Richard Joshua Reynolds High School have proved themselves far brav-

In concluding his statistics, Sir Thomas added that there was but one superman in the group. This person was Charley (One-Round) Eaton, who could easily crush a man's skull with his bare fist. AN INTERPRETATION

I have always been superstitious. When Friday came on the thirteenth of the month, I frankly expected a catastrophe. So, when I had my famous dream, I hied forth to an interpreter of dreams, to inquire its meaning.

"I dreamed," I told the interpreter, "that I was again on a Quill and Scroll party. A Tarzan party. When I arrived, I suddenly found that I could fly like a bird. Up to the top of a tree I flew, where I found Louise Taylor singing "Don't Send My Boy to Prison." Billy Woodruff's voice came from the foliage below, "You could always play beautiful, Mr. Arthur."

"On I flew. Mr. Joyner was in an adjoining telephone booth where Graydon Gwaltney and Henry Nance croaked like frogs and worked trigonometry problems.

"Bill Eagle, in training, took up the refreshment period in shadow boxing, while Frances Bell George led the cheers.

B. C. Dunford and Mary Morris cooked spaghetti in the corner of the clearing, while Mr. Barnette told the story of the true state of affairs. Then I woke up, trembling like a leaf. What does it mean?"

"It means," said the soothsayer, in the mystic tone, "that you should not eat cream puffs, but take your lunch in the cafeteria."

"I know," I said, as I was ushered to the door, "I wrote an editorial on that subject once, for Pine Whispers."

The senior class must be in love. Among its hobbies are reading love stories, talking everyday to certain persons, boys, spooning, girls, and romance. One boy who evidently suffers from brain fever (or some illness closely related to brain fever) says his hobby is studying. Two ambitious (probably love-sick) young damsels write poetry during their spare moments, Sleeping, eating, going places, and "catching air" come in for a fair share—but reading, dancing and music lead.

Would you believe it? Seventeen people vow their favorite subject is English, and seventeen assert that they just couldn't get along without history—even in its form of American Problems! Thirteen confess that if you don't mind they'd rather have typewriting. Two pronounced Latin their favorite, but they couldn't fool us, they'd weaken under cross-examination. Study hall as a favor-

Blue is the favorite color. The boys liked red and brown best, but the girls preferred blue by forty-two votes. One person who must enjoy mourning or funerals likes black best of all.

The most admired movie star is Janet Gaynor. Of course, Charles Farrell was made second by a host of feminine votes. The cave-manish Clark Gable was the next favorite among the actors, and second among the actresses was Joan Crawford. Ben Turpin, Mickey Mouse, and Rin Tin Tin are old favorites.

There are thirty favorite teachers, with Miss Eve Young leading with seventeen votes. Mrs. Beaman and Miss Bailey run her a close second—while Messrs. Perry, Buchannon, Barnette, and Haltiwanger, and Miss Margaret Lumpkin follow up.

And so we present to you these facts with the warning that you can't blackmail us! We were entirely too wise to tell the absolute truth—believe nothing you hear, and only half you see!

FIFTEEN RAHS!

Here's the person responsible for our cheers and rahs and blithe carols out in Southside Park during the football parades. Miss Worley owns the big brown Auburn that leads all the football parades. She might even be called a publicity manager for sports. Fellows—meet Miss Worley!

COMING TO SCHOOL

Fords, Austins, automobiles, skates, bicycles, street cars, feet: everything but aeroplanes. That's what they use for transportation. And now that helicopters are in sight and autogiros are working, nothing is impossible.

This is just a sample of how much one can pack in a can.

HISTORY—JUNE CLASS OF 1932

the Hi Y, and Jim Brunt was elected President of North Carolina State Student Council Congress which met in Greensboro, N. C. Charles Eaton, Ruth White, Billy Woodruff, and a host of others became shining lights in journalistic fields.

Now we find ourselves again on the verge of graduation. Some of us, perhaps, are sorry to leave. Some hope to go to college. At any rate, the school will be, or still is in some cases, our old home. And in spite of its sometimes trying problems in math and American Problems we still think its the best school in the nation.

James Brunt,
Historian

THEY MAY BE WRONG

We don't claim that clothes alone make the man nor that dressing well should be on the curriculum but it is an important study. We hold classes in it everyday and we will be glad to help you.

STAFF ARTISTS

Floyd Green and Jean Patterson, artists for the Pine Whispers staff, stand, or rather sit, before you. Most of the cartoons you saw in Pine Whispers were drawn by Floyd.

Jean, in addition to her position on the paper staff, is the artist who drew every illustration besides the photographs in this annual. Jean will graduate next June and Floyd is a sophomore. Albert Shermer, who did the lettering for the annual, is a junior.

There Is Much To Be Considered In KELVINATOR

In these days when most people are giving more serious consideration to basic values Kelvinators exclusive features are receiving the attention of the intelligent buyer. Kelvinator is the refrigerator of today which is being bought by those with eyes on tomorrow. Kelvinator alone offers 4-Zone Cold that almost magical convenience as different from ordinary refrigeration as horse and buggy travel is from air transportation.

For more than eighteen years Kelvinator has been recongized as the quality manufacture of electric refrigeration. Kelvinator quickly pays for itself because of six major economies. Namely,

1. Eliminates costliness and uncertainty of less modern methods.
2. Utilizes left-overs as attractive dishes.
3. Refreshes wilted vegetables—eliminates food spoilage.
4. Protects and builds good health.
5. Saves money by enabling purchases in larger quantities at lower prices.
6. Low first cost and unapproached economy of operation made possible in a great measure by exclusive kold-Keeper, top the list of economies available in Kelvinator electric refrigeration—economies that justify the statement "A Kelvinator Soon Pays For Itself".

Consider the savings of Kelvinator

SUPPLICATION

(Dedicated to George Stoney because of his untiring effort in French)

Come, Youthful Spring, commune with me;	Away from hordes of people small. Teach me thy call, the voice of pure
From four-walled classrooms set me free;	Unreserved freedom—winds of the sea
Far beyond cities on eagle pinion sure,	Make me thine; let me live with thee.
Let me soar over mountains tall,	Minor Barkley

When the straight-8 blows a shoe

BEFORE you even look for the jack or tire-tools, tuck a neat wad of Prince Albert into the muzzle of your jimmy-pipe. Light up . . . and get yourself in the frame of mind where a flat tire is "all in the day's work." Talk about a gloom-chaser!

P. A. simply knocks troubles for a row of planished-steel mudguards. Its cool, soothing smoke percolates into your system, the sun crashes through the clouds, and everything is hotsy-totsy. Yes indeed, Fellows, Prince Albert is great tobacco.

And paste this in the fly-leaf of your thesaurus: P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat, no matter how hard you hit it up. The Prince Albert process flunked Bite and Parch on their first examination. Get a tidy red tin of P. A. now and see.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

TIME SIGNAL!

Out with the old! Rah for Piggy! This is not a copy of a Saturday Evening Post cover, its two Davises rushing out 1931. Wonder if they knew what they get into in 1932? Miss 1931 seems glad that the responsibility has been transferred to younger shoulders

ONCE EVERY HUNDRED YEARS

This is not the "Streets of New York."
This is celebration of G. Washington's birthday. The-er-from left to right, Raymond Brietz and Gladys Frazier, who shows you how to "Coitsey." (coitsey of Stoney's Blue-Backed Speller).

IN AN OFF MOMENT

Mr. Lewis claims that he can hold your attention if he once gets it. Watch out, ladies! Even if he was speaking of o(pe) rations, it pays to be on the safe side.

Mr. Lewis is Debating Coach, teaches public speaking and (believe it or not) a Sunday School Class.

LEADER IN CLEAN-UP WEEK

Thomas Foot Esquire, better known to the students as Tom, is the chief factor in clean up week. No one week is clean up week for him, because he cleans the campus every week and day.

Although Tom is the smallest jaitor at the school, he is the best known and loved of the Janitor staff.

Every afternoon about two thirty Tom may be seen walking around the grounds with his big bag and paper harpoon. After seeing the way he works, everyone will agree that anyone who throws paper on the campus is a "dirty bum."

YOU NEED A MAGNIFYING GLASS TO READ HANES PRICES

You never saw so much underwear for so little money as you do in HANES Wonderwear this Summer! Yet it's still a comfort to climb into HANES. It has all the cloth you need! Nothing snubs—nothing rubs. Neither does HANES drip and droop! The sizes are always right.

Shirts 35c and 50c
Shorts 35c and 50c

HANES SHIRTS are elastic-knit, and snap like a rubber-band. When you get one pulled down over your head, you can't find a crease or crinkle! But the shirt "gives" with every movement. You can strain and stretch as much as you want—nothing snubs or rubs.

Jump into a pair of HANES SHORTS . . . button up and see how they feel. Nothing hampers the hips! You can bend, twist, and reach without anything cutting or pulling. And HANES colors hold! No amount of washing makes them wander—they're fast and they last!

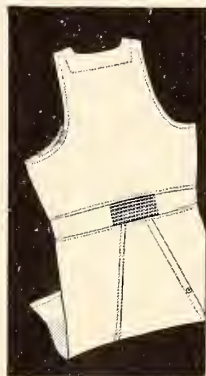

When your new HANES SAMSONBAKS come from the wash, there won't be a runt in the litter. They're Sanforized now—shrunk till there's no shrinkage left! The size you buy is the size you always have . . . boiling-hot suds mean nothing to SAMSONBAKS!

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

The staff wishes to take this opportunity to thank all those who have contributed to the annual and its publication.

First, we wish to thank Mr. Elrick and his print shop boys for their hints towards perfecting the annual and the good printing job and other work which they accomplished.

Second, we wish to thank the photographers for their cooperation in getting the glossy prints in on time, and making the backgrounds uniform.

Third, we wish to express our appreciation to the Piedmont Engravers, whose untiring effort and consistently good work were responsible for the success of a great part of the book.

Four, we wish to thank all the club sponsors and heads of sports who cooperated so well in presenting pictures and write-ups on time and helping us in our plans.

Fifth, to those students whose individual cuts occupy a place on one or more of our pages, we issue heartiest congratulations and heartfelt thanks for their cooperation in arranging for photographs.

To our exchanges, we offer thanks for the many tips we gleaned from your pages, and invite comment.
